What is Quaerens?

A different approach to consumer disputes.

Quaerens helps consumers understand and organise complex disputes before important decisions are made. We focus first on what happened, what evidence exists, what is still missing and which routes may realistically be available.

Depending on the matter, this may include a free self-service Complaint Pack, a Preliminary Assessment, structured complaint support, evidence organisation or referral to an appropriate professional where specialist advice or representation is required.

Evidence Before Opinion

We start with the facts, documents, payments, dates and correspondence - not assumptions.

Clear About Our Role

We explain what Quaerens can do, what we cannot do and when another professional may be appropriate.

Free Where You Can Do It Yourself

Many common complaint routes can be handled using our free self-service tools and Complaint Packs.

Support Where Matters Become Complex

For more involved disputes, structured review can help organise the evidence and identify practical next steps.

A calmer way to deal with complicated complaints

Quaerens is designed to help turn a scattered problem into a clearer story: what happened, what you paid, what went wrong, what evidence exists and what the practical next step may be.

How we help

A simple process built around evidence.

1. Tell us what happened

You do not need legal or technical terminology. Explain the situation in your own words.

2. Organise the information

Contracts, payments, correspondence, dates, representations and relevant records are brought into a clearer structure.

3. Identify what still needs confirming

Missing paperwork does not automatically stop the process. We identify what may still be needed.

4. Clarify the available route

That may be a free Complaint Pack, further assessment, formal complaint, escalation, specialist evidence or referral.

5. You decide what happens next

Don't see your situation?

Consumer disputes do not always fit neatly into one category. Quaerens can help identify the most appropriate starting point.

What makes Quaerens different

Clear support with responsible boundaries.

We don't believe every problem should begin with a paid service.

Free Complaint Packs

Where consumers can reasonably take the first steps themselves, Quaerens provides structured self-service tools.

Evidence-led assessments

More complex matters can be organised around what is reported, what is documented, what requires confirmation and what may still be needed.

No manufactured certainty

We do not need to tell someone they have a 'winning case' to be useful. Outcomes depend on facts, evidence, deadlines and responses.

Clear separation of roles

Where legal representation, surveying, engineering, financial advice or another specialist service is required, that should be provided by the appropriate professional.

Technology + human support

Our platform helps organise complex information while people remain available where human assistance is appropriate.

TRUST, PRIVACY & PROCESS

Quaerens Ltd is registered in England and Wales (Company No. 16176152) and registered with the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO Ref.

What happens after your first conversation?

Clarity before commitment.

There is no obligation simply because you've spoken to us.

We may ask for further information

If something important is missing, we will explain what may help and where it may be found.

You may receive a Preliminary Assessment

Where applicable, this organises the information provided and identifies preliminary issues, the evidence position and possible next steps.

A free route may be appropriate

If the matter can reasonably be progressed using one of our free Complaint Packs, we will make that clear.

Additional support may be available

Where the matter is more complex, we will explain any available Quaerens support before you decide whether you want it.

Specialist referral may be appropriate

Some matters require a solicitor, surveyor, engineer or another specialist. Where appropriate, that will be made clear.

Clarity before commitment

Our aim is for you to understand your position, the evidence and the available route before deciding what to do next.
